

d

| literal-write instruction | tar benign                                                                                                                                                | tar lethal                                                                   |
|---------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| present            | Z80open, then closed · 40 of 40 worldsmodified BFF, harmless bracketsopen for ever · 12 of 12 worldsno closed design exists | modified BFF, lethal bracketsopen, then extinct · 12 of 12 worlds |
| absent             | not run                                                                                                                                                   | BFF as publishedborn closed · 28 of 28 life-producing worlds      | with benign tar and literal writing, closure depends on a jump the organism can copy along with itself